Dear Hal,

The enclosed clips are of no particular interest so far as information is concerned, but they do indicate I think, something of the depth of the current interest in the investigation of the murder of JFK: if Omaha is interested (the columnist Pitron is an Omaha resident, writing this week from NYC), surely then national interest is very high indeed. I was unable to attend the Symposium at the University here (see other clip) but it apparently was well attended. Omaha is interested, it seems. In any case, much of what you've said and written in the past continues to be proven by the various inquiries, investigations, etc. A gross and profoundly sad tale, as you of course well know. But is there any chance, now, this late, of ever getting to the bottom of it? Might there still be people free who put their hand to this deed? Well, these are questions that everyone is asking now, I suppose. But I want to say again to you that I have ever been impressed with your own personal integrity and, although I'm sure I was never any great help to your researches, I was glad I could try to help. And I am proud to call Harold Weisberg my friend. I do hope, too, that someday we will be able to see each other again — just to relax and talk a bit. It's been a very long time since I've had any direct news of you (the last reference I had of any kind was a news story re: the loss of your lawsuit regarding access to the autopsy records) and would greatly appreciate at least ~~at~~ a note reassuring me that you are well. Please?

— Warmest personal regards —

Phil
